ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK/DISCLAIMER

We have prepared this handbook to help employees find the answers to many questions that they may have regarding their employment with TSP.

We do not expect this handbook to answer all questions. Your managers and Talent Management team also serve as a source of information.

Neither this handbook nor any other verbal or written communication by a management representative is, nor should it be considered to be, an agreement, contract of employment, express or implied, or a promise of treatment in any particular manner in any given situation, nor does it confer any contractual rights whatsoever. TSP adheres to the policy of employment at will, which permits the Company or the employee to end the employment relationship at any time, for any reason, with or without cause or notice.

No Company representative other than the CEO and/or the Head of Talent Management may modify at-will status and/or provide any special arrangement concerning terms or conditions of employment in an individual case or generally and any such modification must be in a signed writing.

Many matters covered by this handbook, such as benefit plan descriptions, are also described in separate Company documents. These Company documents are always controlling over any statement made in this handbook or by any member of management.

This handbook states only general Company guidelines. The Company may, at any time, in its sole discretion, modify or vary from anything stated in this handbook, with or without notice, except for the rights of the parties to end employment at will, which may only be modified by an express written agreement signed by the employee and the CEO and/or the Head of Talent Management.

This handbook supersedes all prior handbooks.

Welcome

For employees who are just starting with TSP, let me extend a warm and sincere welcome.

For employees who have been with us for a while, thank you for your past and continued service.

I extend my personal best wishes for your success and happiness here at TSP. We believe that our product is our people; those who will enable us to create new opportunities in the years to come.

Frank Gonzalez, Co-Founder and CEO

Mission Statement

We empower our employees so that our customers can focus on what they do best. Our employees are trusted to innovate, integrate and creatively solve technology problems. TSP's personalized approach will not be found in any other partner.

Section 1 – Governing Principals of Employment

1.1 Equal Employment Opportunity

TSP is an Equal Opportunity Employer that does not discriminate on the basis of actual or perceived race, creed, color, religion, alienage or national origin, ancestry, citizenship status, age, disability or handicap, sex, gender, marital status, veteran status (including Vietnam era or disabled veterans), sexual orientation, genetic information, arrest record, or any other characteristic protected by applicable federal, state or local laws. Our leadership team is dedicated to this policy with respect to recruitment, hiring, placement, promotion, transfer, training, compensation, benefits, employee activities and general treatment during employment.

TSP will strive to make a reasonable accommodation to the known physical or mental limitations of qualified employees with disabilities unless the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the operation of our business. If you need assistance to perform your job duties because of a physical or mental condition, please see the TSP ADA and ADAAA policy on the CSC knowledge base, as well as let Talent Management know.

The Company will work to accommodate the sincere religious beliefs of its employees to the extent such accommodation does not pose an undue hardship on the Company's operations. If you wish to request such an accommodation, please speak to your manager and/or Talent Management.

Any employees with questions or concerns about equal employment opportunities in the workplace are encouraged to bring these issues to the attention of the Talent Management. The Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who raise issues of equal employment opportunity. If an employee feels they have been subjected to any such retaliation, they should bring it to the attention of the Head of Talent Management. To ensure our workplace is free of artificial barriers, violation of this policy including any improper retaliatory conduct will lead to discipline, up to and including discharge. All employees must cooperate with all investigations.

1.2 Right to Work

Federal regulations require that all new employees must complete and sign Federal form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification, and present documents of identity and eligibility to work in the U.S.

TSP participates in e-Verify and will provide the federal government with Form I-9 information to confirm that a candidate is authorized to work in the U.S. If E-Verify cannot confirm authorization to work, they are required to provide written instructions and an opportunity to contact Department of Homeland Security (DHS) or Social Security Administration (SSA) so the candidate can begin to resolve the issue before TSP can take any action against them, including terminating employment. TSP will only use e-Verify once a candidate has accepted a job offer and completed the Form I-9. For TSP re-hires, Talent Management will not require a new i-9 form if rehired within 3 years of the date of the original form.

1.3 Federal/State Law Posters

So that all employees will be aware of their rights under the federal fair employment practices laws, posters briefly describing such laws and rights are prominently displayed in the Corporate office of TSP and via electronic version through the CSC knowledge base.

1.4 Open Door Policy

TSP encourages employees to openly discuss ideas and concerns with leadership. If you have a suggestion or an idea you believe the Company should implement or a business-related concern, a candid discussion with your manager is usually the most effective path for implementing ideas and addressing concerns.

1.5 Employment of Relatives and Relationships in the Workplace

Employment

TSP is pleased to consider the employment of relatives of active employees, should the relative meet all of the specific requirements of the available position.

The employment of a relative is permitted provided it does not create real or potential conflicts of interest and is approved by Talent Management as well as TSP's client, when applicable. Relationships by blood or marriage, as well as consensual romantic relationships, must be reported to Talent Management and they will work with the appropriate parties to ensure there is no conflict.

For the purposes of this policy, a relative is any person who is related by blood or marriage, or whose relationship with the employee is similar to that of persons who are related by blood or marriage.

Relationships

TSP strongly believes that a work environment where employees maintain clear boundaries between employee personal and business interactions is necessary for effective business operations. Although this policy does not prevent the development of friendships or romantic relationships between co-workers, it does establish boundaries as to how relationships are conducted during working hours and within the working environment.

Individuals in supervisory or managerial roles and those with authority over others' terms and conditions of employment are subject to more stringent requirements under this policy due to their status as role models, their access to sensitive information, and their ability to affect the employment of individuals in subordinate positions.

This policy does not preclude or interfere with the rights of employees protected by the National Labor Relations Act or any other applicable statute concerning the employment relationship.

- During working time and in working areas, employees are expected to conduct themselves in an appropriate workplace manner that does not interfere with others or with overall productivity.
- During nonworking time, such as lunches, breaks, and before and after work periods, employees engaging in personal exchanges in nonwork areas should observe an appropriate workplace manner.
- Employees are strictly prohibited from engaging in physical contact that would in any way be deemed inappropriate in the workplace by a reasonable person while anywhere on company premises or while representing TSP, whether during working hours or not.
- Employees who allow personal relationships with co-workers to adversely affect the work environment will be subject to TSP's disciplinary policy, including counseling for minor problems. Failure to change behavior and maintain expected work responsibilities is viewed as a serious disciplinary matter.
- Employee off-duty conduct is generally regarded as private, as long as such conduct does not create problems within the workplace. An exception to this principle, however, is romantic or sexual relationships between managers and subordinates.
- Any manager, executive or other company official in a sensitive or influential position with TSP must disclose the existence of a romantic or sexual relationship with another co-worker. Disclosure may be made to the individual's immediate manager or the Head of Talent Management. TSP will review the circumstances to determine whether any conflict of interest exists.
- When a conflict-of-interest is presented due to a company official's relationship with a co-worker, TSP will work with the parties involved to consider options for resolving the problem. The initial solution may be to make sure the parties no longer work together on matters where one is able to influence the other or take action for the other. Matters such as hiring, firing, promotions, performance management, compensation decisions and financial transactions are examples of situations that may require reallocation of duties to avoid any actual or perceived reward or disadvantage. In some cases, other measures may be necessary, such as transfer of one or both parties to other positions or departments. If one or both parties refuse to accept a reasonable solution, such refusal will be deemed a voluntary resignation.
- Failure to cooperate with TSP to resolve a conflict or problem caused by a romantic or sexual relationship between co-workers or among managers, supervisors or others in positions of authority in a mutually agreeable fashion may be deemed insubordination and result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.
- The provisions of this policy apply regardless of the sexual orientation of the parties involved.
- Where doubts exist as to the specific meaning of the terms used above, employees should make judgments based on the overall spirit and intent of this policy.

TSP is an equal employment/affirmative action employer and is committed to providing a workplace that is free of discrimination of all types and from abusive, offensive or harassing behavior, regardless of a workplace relationship. Any concerns about the administration of this policy should be addressed to the Head of Talent Management.

1.6 Non-Harassment and Bullying

TSP is committed to a work environment in which all individuals are treated with respect and dignity. It is TSP's policy to prohibit intentional and unintentional harassment of any individual by another person on the basis of any protected classification including, but not limited to, race, color, national origin, disability, religion, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation or age. The purpose of this policy is not to regulate our employees' personal morality, but to ensure that in the workplace, no one harasses another individual.

If an employee feels that they have been subjected to conduct which violates this policy, they should immediately report the matter to their Manager. If the employee is unable for any reason to contact this person, or if the employee has not received a satisfactory response within five (5) business days after reporting any incident of what the employee perceives to be harassment or bullying, the employee should contact the Head of Talent Management. If the person toward whom the complaint is directed is one of the individuals indicated above, the employee should contact any higher-level leader in their reporting hierarchy. Every report of perceived harassment or bullying will be fully investigated, and corrective action will be taken where appropriate. All complaints will be kept confidential to the extent possible, but confidentiality cannot be guaranteed. In addition, the Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report unwelcome conduct to management or who cooperate in the investigations of such reports in accordance with this policy. If an employee feels they have been subjected to any such retaliation, they should report it in the same manner in which the employee would report a claim of perceived harassment or bullying under this policy. Violation of this policy including any improper retaliatory conduct will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge. All employees must cooperate with all investigations

1.7 Sexual Harassment

It is TSP's policy to prohibit harassment of any employee by any manager, employee, customer or vendor on the basis of sex or gender. The purpose of this policy is not to regulate personal morality within the Company. It is to ensure that at the Company all employees are free from sexual harassment. While it is not easy to define precisely what types of conduct could constitute sexual harassment, examples of prohibited behavior include unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, obscene gestures, displaying sexually graphic magazines, calendars or posters, sending sexually explicit e-mails, text messages and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature, such as uninvited touching of a sexual nature or sexually related comments. Depending upon the circumstances, improper conduct also can include sexual joking, vulgar or offensive conversation or jokes, commenting about an employee's physical appearance, conversation about your own or someone else's sex life, or teasing or other conduct directed toward a person because of their gender which is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create an unprofessional and hostile working environment.

If the employee feels that they have been subjected to conduct which violates this policy, the employee should immediately report the matter to their manager. If unable for any reason to contact this person, or if the employee has not received a satisfactory response within five (5) business days after reporting any incident of perceived harassment, the employee should contact the Head of Talent Management. If the person toward whom the complaint is directed is one of the individuals indicated above, the employee should contact any higher-level manager in their reporting hierarchy. Every report of perceived harassment will be fully investigated, and corrective action will be taken where appropriate. All complaints will be kept confidential to the extent possible, but confidentiality cannot be guaranteed. In addition, the Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report unwelcome conduct to management or who cooperate in the investigations of such reports in accordance with this policy. If an employee feels that they have been subjected to any such retaliation, the employee should report it in the same manner in which a claim of perceived harassment would be reported under this policy. Violation of this policy including any improper retaliatory conduct will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge. All employees must cooperate with all investigations.

1.8 Drug Free Workplace and Alcohol Use

To help ensure a safe, healthy and productive work environment for our employees and others, to protect company property, and to ensure efficient operations, TSP has adopted a policy of maintaining a workplace free of drugs. This policy applies to all employees and other individuals who perform work for the Company.

The unlawful or unauthorized use, abuse, solicitation, theft, possession, transfer, purchase, sale or distribution of controlled substances, or drug paraphernalia by an individual anywhere on Company premises, while on Company business (whether or not on Company premises) or while representing the Company, is strictly prohibited. Employees and other individuals who work for TSP also are prohibited from reporting to work or working while they are using or under the influence of alcohol, or any controlled substances, which may impact an employee's ability to perform their job or otherwise pose safety concerns, except when the use is pursuant to a licensed medical practitioner's instructions and the licensed medical practitioner authorized the employee or individual to report to work.

Violation of this policy will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

TSP maintains a policy of non-discrimination and will work to make reasonable accommodations to assist individuals recovering from substance and alcohol dependencies, and those who have a medical history which reflects treatment for substance abuse conditions. However, employees may not request an accommodation to avoid discipline for a policy violation. We encourage employees to seek assistance before their substance abuse or alcohol misuse renders them unable to perform the essential functions of their jobs or jeopardizes the health and safety of any Company employee, including themselves. For more information, please see the TSP ADA and ADAAA policy on the CSC knowledge base.

In the discretion of the Company, any employee who violates this policy may be required, in connection with or in lieu of disciplinary sanctions, to participate to the Company's satisfaction in an approved drug or alcohol assistance or rehabilitation program.

All employees are hereby advised that full compliance with the foregoing policy shall be a condition of employment at TSP. Any employee who violates the policy described above shall be subject to discipline up to and including immediate discharge, as allowed by Federal and state law.

1.9 Drug Testing

Pre-Employment

As permitted by Federal, state and international law, candidates being considered for hire must pass a drug test, after receiving an offer of employment but before beginning work. Refusal to submit to testing will result in disqualification of further employment consideration.

Reasonable Suspicion

As permitted by Federal, state and international law, employees may be subject to testing based on (but not limited to) observations by at least two parties of apparent workplace use, possession or impairment; or when they cause or contribute to accident that seriously damages a vehicle, machinery, equipment, property, themselves or another individual requiring offsite medical attention.

Random

Submission to scheduled and random drug testing is a continuing condition of employment for all TSP employees, as allowed by Federal, state and international law.

1.10 Background Checks

TSP believes that hiring qualified individuals to fill positions contributes to the overall strategic success of TSP. Background checks serve as an important part of the selection process as well as ensure a safe work environment for current and future employees. TSP will ensure that all background checks are held in compliance with all federal, state and international statutes, such as the Fair Credit Reporting Act and Canadian Human Rights Act.

As part of the end stage of the hiring process, all TSP employees undergo a criminal background check. The offer of employment is contingent upon passing this check. When it is discovered that an applicant (or employee) has a criminal conviction (whether through a background check or through self-reporting), TSP considers the particulars of the conviction and the particulars of the job, and from that evaluation a decision is made as to whether to hire the applicant. If the employee will be dedicated to a client location, part of the evaluation process described above, includes a review of contractual and/or client safety and security standards.

Additionally, depending upon client location and contract requirements, employees may have to pass periodic background checks throughout their tenure with TSP as a condition of continued employment. If an employee has a periodic background check that does not meet standards, their employment can be terminated.

Due to our diverse client database, there may also be time when TSP's standard background check, discussed above, is not adequate enough to meet certain clients' safety and security requirements. A more thorough background check may need to be completed for access to a client location. This may include education, work history, residency, no-fly list, and if the position warrants, credit history.

Talent Management will provide further details on an as-needed basis.

1.11 Smoke-Free, Tobacco-Free

TSP believes in the maximum comfort and health of its employees. One way to ensure this is to maintain a smoke and tobacco-free workplace. It is understood that some employees choose to smoke, vape or use tobacco, but for the regard of the health of others, these products are not allowed anywhere in the workplace. Employees who choose to smoke, vape or use tobacco may do so on their breaks outside of the office, in a designated location, as long as the breaks do not become excessive.

Electronic cigarettes (vaping) and smokeless tobacco are included in this policy.

1.12 Workplace Violence

TSP is strongly committed to providing a safe workplace. The purpose of this policy is to minimize the risk of personal injury to employees and damage to Company and personal property.

We do not expect employees to become experts in psychology or to physically subdue a threatening or violent individual. Indeed, we specifically discourage employees from engaging in any physical confrontation with a violent or potentially violent individual. However, we do expect and encourage employees to exercise reasonable judgment in identifying potentially dangerous situations.

Prohibited Conduct

Threats, threatening language or any other acts of aggression or violence made toward or by any employee WILL NOT BE TOLERATED. For purposes of this policy, a threat includes any verbal or physical harassment or abuse, any attempt at intimidating or instilling fear in others, menacing gestures, flashing of weapons, stalking or any other hostile, aggressive, injurious or destructive action undertaken for the purpose of domination or intimidation.

Procedures for Reporting a Threat

All potentially dangerous situations, including threats by co-workers, should be reported immediately to any member of management with whom the employee feels comfortable. Reports of threats may be maintained confidential to the extent maintaining confidentiality does not impede our ability to investigate and respond to the complaints. All threats will be promptly investigated by Talent Management. All employees must cooperate with all investigations. No employee will be subjected to retaliation, intimidation or disciplinary action as a result of reporting a threat in good faith under this policy.

If TSP determines, after an appropriate good faith investigation, that someone has violated this policy, the Company will take swift and appropriate corrective action.

If an employee is the recipient of a threat made by an outside party, that employee should follow the steps detailed in this section. It is important for us to be aware of any potential danger in our offices. Indeed, we want to take effective measures to protect everyone from the threat of a violent act by an employee or by anyone else.

1.13 Pay Procedures and Transparency

Employees are paid biweekly, every other Friday. TSP will distribute employee paychecks, or you may view your direct deposited pay voucher online. If for any reason you are unable to be present when paychecks are distributed, your check will be held for you in the TSP office or mailed to your home address. If you wish for someone else to pick up your check for you, you must provide Talent Management with your written approval.

The Company will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is: (a) in response to a formal request, complaint or charge; (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer; or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information.

1.14 Employer Rights

TSP reserves the right to exercise customary managerial functions including, but not limited to, the right to:

- Assign, supervise, discipline, dismiss and terminate employees.
- Evaluate employees' performance and amend or modify compensation.
- Determine and change work schedules and shifts.
- Transfer employees within departments or into other departments and other job classifications.
- Determine and change the size and qualifications of the workforce.
- Determine and change the methods by which operations are carried out.
- Assign duties to employees in accordance with group or client needs and requirements to carry out administrative functions.
- Amend or modify benefits programs.
- Establish, change and abolish policies, procedures, rules, regulations and conditions of employment at any time and for any reason with or without notice.

Section 2 – Operational Policies

2.1 Employee Classifications

For purposes of this handbook, all employees fall within one of the classifications below.

Full-Time Employees - Employees who regularly work at least 30 hours per week.

Part-Time Employees - Employees who regularly work fewer than 30 hours per week.

In addition to the above classifications, employees are categorized as either "exempt" or "nonexempt" for purposes of federal and state wage and hour laws. Employees classified as exempt do not receive overtime pay; they generally receive the same weekly salary regardless of hours worked. Such salary may be paid less frequently than weekly. The employee will be informed of these classifications upon hire and informed of any subsequent changes to the classifications.

2.2 Your Employment Records

Employee personnel records are maintained in our Talent Management department and may be electronic in format. As required by law, some records pertaining to employees are maintained in separate paper files relating to medical issues and internal investigations. Employees, or their representative, may request access to their basic personnel file. Depending upon the circumstances, employees may be provided access to records pertaining to internal investigations, with appropriate redactions to protect the rights of others.

In order to obtain their position, employees provided us with personal information, such as address and telephone number. This information is contained in the employee's electronic personnel records.

The employee should keep their personnel records up to date by maintaining records on the payroll system or notifying Talent Management. The employee should also update their skills profile survey of any specialized training or skills they may acquire during employment. Unreported changes of address, marital status, etc. can affect withholding tax and benefit coverage. Further, an "out of date" emergency contact or an inability to reach the employee in a crisis could cause a severe health or safety risk or other significant problem.

No information will be provided to services outside of TSP, other than employment verification (dates of employment, position, department), without your written permission.

2.3 Working Hours and Schedule

TSP normally is open for business from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm, Monday through Friday. The employee will be assigned a work schedule and will be expected to begin and end work according to the schedule. To accommodate the needs of our business, at some point we may need to change individual work schedules on either a short-term or long-term basis.

Employees will be provided meal and rest periods as required by law. Managers or Talent Management will provide further details on an as-needed basis.

2.4 Reporting Hours Worked

All employees must record their actual time worked for payroll and benefit purposes. All employees must record daily work hours as well as any absence from work for any non-work-related reason, within the TSP time records system.

Altering, falsifying or tampering with time records is prohibited and subjects the employee to discipline, up to and including discharge.

Non-exempt employees may not start work until their scheduled starting time.

It is the employee's responsibility to approve records to certify the accuracy of all time recorded. Any errors in the time record should be reported immediately to a manager, who will attempt to correct legitimate errors.

It is the policy of TSP that employees correctly and accurately reflect your working hours on the correct and appropriate day. If you are ever told to falsify your working hours (i.e. if you are told not to report overtime, if you are told to average your hours across days worked, etc.), you are to immediately report the incident to the Head of Talent Management or to senior leadership for investigation.

The deadline for employee submission of your hours worked in a workweek is 5:00pm each Monday. All timecards must be approved by timecard approvers and in the “processing” status by 8:00am each Thursday.

Even if you are going to be on Open Vacation Time or out on leave, you are still responsible for turning in your hours worked by the 5:00pm Monday deadline. Employees who are found to be offenders of this policy will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

2.5 Overtime for Non-Exempt

Like most successful companies, TSP experiences periods of high activity. During these busy periods, additional work may be required. Managers are responsible for monitoring business activity and requesting overtime work if it is necessary. Effort will be made to provide employees with adequate advance notice in such situations.

Any non-exempt employee who works overtime will be compensated at the rate of one and one-half times (1.5) their normal hourly wage for all time worked in excess of forty (40) hours each week, unless otherwise required by law.

Employees may work overtime only with prior management authorization.

For purposes of calculating overtime for non-exempt employees, the workweek begins at 12 a.m. on Saturday and ends 168 hours later at 12 a.m. on the following Saturday.

Non-work hours such as Open Vacation Time, Sick Time, Holiday, Military Leave or Bereavement are not considered as time worked in the overtime calculation.

2.6 Safe Harbor Pay Policy

It is our policy and practice to accurately compensate employees and to do so in compliance with all applicable state and federal laws. To ensure proper payment and that no improper deductions are made, employees must review pay stubs promptly to identify and report all errors.

Employees classified as exempt salaried employees will receive a salary which is intended to compensate them for all hours, they may work for TSP. This salary will be established at the time of hire or classification as an exempt employee. While it may be subject to review and modification from time to time, such as during salary review times, the salary will be a predetermined amount that will not be subject to deductions for variations in the quantity or quality of the work performed.

Under federal and state law, salary is subject to certain deductions. For example, unless state law requires otherwise, salary can be reduced for the following reasons:

- full-day absences for personal reasons;
- full-day absences for sickness or disability;
- full-day disciplinary suspensions for infractions of our written policies and procedures;
- expenses paid in advance by TSP for any accreditation and training programs;
- family and Medical Leave absences (either full- or partial-day absences);
- to offset amounts received as payment from the court for jury and witness fees or from the military as military pay;
- the first or last week of employment in the event the employee works less than a full week; and
- any full work week in which the employee does not perform any work.

Salary may also be reduced for certain types of deductions such as a portion of health, dental or life insurance premiums; state, federal or local taxes; social security; or voluntary contributions to a 401(k) or pension plan.

In any work week in which the employee performed any work, salary will not be reduced for any of the following reasons:

- partial day absences for personal reasons, sickness or disability;
- an absence because the employer has decided to close a facility on a scheduled work day;
- absences for jury duty, attendance as a witness, or military leave in any week in which the employee performed any work (subject to any offsets as set forth above); and
- any other deductions prohibited by state or federal law.

However, unless state law provides otherwise, deductions may be made to accrued leave for full-day absences for personal reasons, sickness or disability.

If the employee believes they have been subject to any improper deductions, the employee should immediately report the matter to a manager. If the manager is unavailable or if the employee believes it would be inappropriate to contact that person (or if the employee has not received a prompt and fully acceptable reply), they should immediately contact Talent Management or any other manager in TSP with whom the employee feels comfortable.

2.7 Travel Time Overview for Non-Exempt Employees

Overnight, Out-of-Town Trips

Non-exempt employees will be compensated for time spent traveling (except for meal periods) during their normal working hours, on days they are scheduled to work and on unscheduled work days (such as weekends). Non-exempt employees also will be paid for any time spent performing job duties during otherwise non-compensable travel time; however, such work should be limited absent advance management authorization.

Out-of-Town Trips for One Day

Non-exempt employees who travel out of town for a one-day assignment will be paid for all travel time, except for, among other things: (i) time spent traveling between the employee's home and the local railroad, bus or plane terminal; and (ii) meal periods.

Local Travel

Non-exempt employees will be compensated for time spent traveling from one job site to another job site during a workday. The trip home, however, is non-compensable when an employee goes directly home from their final job site, unless it is much longer than their regular commute home from the regular worksite. In such case, the portion of the trip home in excess of the regular commute is compensable.

Commuting Time

Under the Portal to Portal Act, travel from home to work and from work to home is generally non-compensable. However, if a non-exempt employee regularly reports to a worksite near their home but is required to report to a worksite farther away than the regular worksite, the additional time spent traveling is compensable.

If compensable travel time results in more than 40 hours worked by a non-exempt employee, the employee will be compensated at an overtime rate of one and one-half times the regular rate.

To the extent that applicable state law provides greater benefits, state law applies.

See the separate TSP Travel and Expense Policy on CSC knowledge base, for specifics.

2.8 Stand-by Pay Policy

Employees of TSP may be required to serve in a stand-by capacity to be available to respond to an emergency or meet customer contractual commitments and, if such circumstance arises, to report to work after the end of the employees' regular shifts and before the beginning of their next scheduled shifts. Daily stand-by pay may be offered depending on the job duties and role of the individual.

2.9 Training Time Pay

Attendance of hourly employees at lectures, meetings, training programs and similar activities is not working time if both of the following criteria are met:

- Attendance is outside of the employee's regular working hours;
- Attendance is voluntary

2.10 Flex-Time

Flex time may be utilized at a manager's discretion as a way to manage overtime for non-exempt employees, and reward exempt employees for sustained periods of exceptional performance and work load. For non-exempt employees, flex time must be used in the same workweek the time was lost and/or additional work was performed and cannot be saved and used at a later date.

Employees are responsible for recording their hours of work. If flex time is utilized, employees should be sure to report actual hours worked each work day - as they work them on the correct day that they worked the hours.

Non-Exempt Employee Example:

The TSP workweek is Saturday through Friday.

An employee who regularly is scheduled to work 8 hours a day Monday through Friday, has a special project that will require 8 hours of work on Saturday. In order to manage overtime, the manager may require the employee to not work their regularly scheduled 8 hours the following Friday since 8 hours was worked the prior Saturday. This arrangement limits the total number of hours worked by the employee at or below 40 hours for that single workweek.

An employee who missed 2 hours of work on Monday due to a minor traffic accident, may be allowed to work 2 additional hours during the week to “make-up” for the missed time from Monday, assuming there is work to be completed and it has been reviewed and approved by the manager.

Exempt Employee Example:

An employee has been consistently working 45-hour work weeks due to a special project. Thus, the employee has been involved in a sustained period of exceptional performance and work load. To reward the employee for their work on this special project the manager allows the employee to leave early on a Friday.

Due to specific contractual requirements please work with your manager/manager to determine how this should be notated on timekeeping.

2.11 Employee Service Credit

"Length of service" refers to the length of time that our employees spend as active full-time or part-time employees with TSP. Service begins on the day you become a full-time or part-time Employee.

Length of service may be used in determining certain employee benefits, such as time-off benefits. Employees will not lose credit for service with TSP provided their last day of service was within 30 days of rehire or again becoming an active employee. Talent Management will discuss this issue with any rehired employee upon hire.

2.12 Your Paycheck

TSP payroll is in arrears. Employees will be paid bi-weekly for all the time worked during the scheduled pay period. Please see the posted pay schedule in CSC knowledge base.

Payroll stubs itemize deductions made from gross earnings. By law, the Company is required to make deductions for Social Security, federal income tax and any other appropriate taxes. These required deductions also may include any court-ordered garnishments. Payroll stubs also will differentiate between regular pay received and overtime pay received.

If there is an error in an employee's pay, the employee should bring the matter to the attention of Talent Management immediately, so the Company can resolve the matter quickly and amicably.

Live paychecks will be given only to the employee, unless they request that they be mailed, or authorize in writing another person to accept the check.

2.13 Direct Deposit

As a convenience to our employees, TSP offers direct deposit of pay into one or more bank accounts. Banking information must be completed within the payroll system to set up direct deposit. Please note, paper checks will be delivered until banking information is verified electronically.

TSP strongly encourages the use of this service.

2.14 Salary Advances

TSP is dedicated to ensuring that all employees receive timely and accurate paychecks and direct deposits. Paychecks are issued, and direct deposits are made in accordance with published payroll schedules.

The Company expects all employees to manage their own financial affairs. It is the standard policy of TSP not to loan money or advance salary to employees.

2.15 Performance Reviews

With respect to employee development, TSP values and integrates a performance management system in contrast to a performance appraisal system. Historically performance appraisals are one-time events, retrospective, short-term, correction oriented, and revolve around completing a form or marking a check box. Performance management is ongoing, prospective, long-term, and involves progressive steps, planning, and goal setting.

Employees are most successful when they clearly understand their role, know what level of performance is considered acceptable, and receive consistent feedback. Evaluation of an employee's performance is not just a once-a-year activity done by a manager. It is an ongoing process that involves regular, constructive coaching and feedback. The employee is just as responsible for their successful performance and evaluation as the supervisor.

At TSP, managers and employees are encouraged to discuss job performance and goals on a regular basis. Performance conversations are conducted to provide both parties the opportunity to discuss tasks, identify and correct weaknesses, recognize strengths and discuss positive, purposeful approaches for meeting goals.

If an employee's performance fails to meet expectations, the manager in conjunction with Talent Management may develop a corrective action plan. Failure to satisfactorily complete a corrective action plan can result in termination.

If a formal annual or semi-annual review process is preferred, please request one from your manager. Please note that compensation is evaluated separately from performance.

2.16 Merit Increases

TSP believes in rewarding hard work at any point in the year. We have given full authority to our managers to request adjustments to salaries of their team members whenever they feel it is justified.

Merit increases are evaluated on a case-by-case basis for each employee. Managers will make the merit increase recommendations that will be reviewed and approved by their leadership at the Company's sole discretion. Not all employees will be eligible for merit increases throughout the year depending upon a number of factors not limited to job grade, performance, length of service, and contractual obligations/requirements.

2.17 Record Retention

TSP acknowledges its responsibility to preserve information relating to litigation, audits and investigations. Failure on the part of employees to follow this policy can result in possible civil and criminal sanctions against the Company and its employees and possible disciplinary action against responsible individuals (up to and including discharge of the employee). Each employee has an obligation to contact the head of Talent Management to inform them of potential or actual litigation, external audit, investigation or similar proceeding involving the Company that may have an impact on record retention protocols.

2.18 Job Postings

TSP is dedicated to assisting employees in managing their careers and reaching their professional goals through promotion and transfer opportunities. This policy outlines the on-line job posting program which is in place for all employees. To be eligible to apply for an open position, employees must meet several requirements:

- Should be a current, regular, full-time or part-time employee
- Been in your current position for at least six months
- Maintain a performance rating of satisfactory or above
- Should not be on an employee conduct/performance-related probation or warning
- Must meet the job qualifications listed on the job posting

- Required to provide the employee's manager with notice prior to applying for the position

If the employee finds a position of interest on the job posting website and meets the eligibility requirements, an on-line job posting application must be completed in order to be considered for the position. Not all positions are guaranteed to be posted. The Company reserves the right to seek applicants solely from outside sources or to post positions internally and externally simultaneously.

For more specific information about the program, please contact the Talent Management Department.

2.19 Employment References

TSP will respond to reference requests through the Talent Management Department. The Company will provide general information concerning the employee such as date of hire, date of discharge, and positions held. Requests for reference information must be in writing, and responses will be in writing. Please refer all requests for references to the Talent Management Department.

Only the Talent Management Department may provide references.

2.20 Continuity of Services

TSP is committed to providing our clients with quality services at all times. In the event of a labor strike or other work stoppage by a client's employees, TSP will do our best to continue to support the client by continuing to provide the services that are within the scope of TSP's agreement for services with the client.

If a separate gate system is established, TSP will instruct its employees to use the separate gate assigned to them for entry and exit to the worksite. However, if no separate gate system is established to ensure that TSP employees are not required to cross a picket line, and in the event that striking workers and/or picketers are engaging in violence, destruction of property, or other activity or anticipated activity that poses a risk to the health and safety of our employees, we will not require our employees to cross a picket line if doing so could subject them to injury or other harm.

Section 3 – Benefits

3.1 Benefits Overview

In addition to good working conditions and competitive pay, it is TSP's policy to provide a combination of supplemental benefits to all eligible employees. In keeping with this goal, each benefit program has been carefully devised. These benefits include paid time-off, holidays, insurance and other plan benefits. We are constantly studying and evaluating our benefits programs and policies to better meet present and future requirements. These policies have been developed over the years and continue to be refined to keep up with changing times and needs.

The next few pages contain a brief outline of the benefits programs TSP provides employees and their families. Of course, the information presented here is intended to serve only as guidelines.

The descriptions of the insurance and other plan benefits merely highlight certain aspects of the applicable plans for general information only. The details of those plans are spelled out in the official plan documents, which are available for review upon request from Talent Management. Additionally, the provisions of the plans, including eligibility and benefits provisions, are summarized in the summary plan descriptions ("SPDs") for the plans (which may be revised from time to time). In the determination of benefits and all other matters under each plan, the terms of the official plan documents shall govern over the language of any descriptions of the plans, including the SPDs and this handbook.

Further, TSP (including the officers and administrators who are responsible for administering the plans) retains full discretionary authority to interpret the terms of the plans, as well as full discretionary authority with regard to administrative matters arising in connection with the plans and all issues concerning benefit terms, eligibility and entitlement.

While the Company intends to maintain these employee benefits, it reserves the absolute right to modify, amend or terminate these benefits at any time and for any reason.

If employees have any questions regarding benefits, they should contact Talent Management.

3.2 Paid Holidays

TSP US Employees will be paid for the following holidays:

- New Year's Day
- Spring Holiday
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- Day after Thanksgiving

- Christmas Day
- Additional Day at Christmas

Please check the CSC knowledge base for a published list of holidays each year.

When holidays are celebrated on a regular work day, eligible employees will receive one (1) day's pay at their regular straight-time rate. Non-exempt employees who are called in to work on a holiday will receive their physical work hours paid plus full holiday pay. Exempt employees who perform work on a holiday will receive time and half pay for hours worked.

When a company holiday falls within an employee's scheduled Open Vacation Time, Sick Time or other logged time (i.e. jury duty, military leave, bereavement, etc.) that day will be paid and allocated as a holiday. If no time other than the holiday is logged for the week, as in the case with part-time employees, no holiday pay will be received.

TSP holidays are not included as "hours physically worked" for purposes of overtime calculations.

3.3 Open Vacation

TSP employees are professionals with responsibilities to the company, to our external customers, and to themselves. TSP expects each employee to determine for themselves, consistent with the employee's responsibilities, how much time to take off from work. Vacation time away from the office is beneficial, and all employees are encouraged to take it; however, no particular amount of paid vacation time off is promised, guaranteed, vested or accrued. Compensation is not reduced for taking time off under this policy, but the time off will not be counted as hours worked when computing overtime for non-exempt employees.

Eligibility

Open Vacation policy applies to all full-time employees of TSP, after the first 90 days of continuous service.

Applicable Reasons for Leave

This policy applies to time off for purpose such as vacation, relaxation, personal or family matters. Leave for jury duty, military, bereavement, sick days, leave under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) and other applicable country/federal/state/local laws will be tracked separately. The appropriate policies should also be consulted for additional requirements for leaves that may run concurrent with this policy.

Scheduling Time Off

Employees must follow the steps below if they intended to take leave under this policy for vacation or personal reasons known in advance. For time off for other reasons, please consult the applicable leave policy for more information regarding notification, documentation, approval and any other requirements related to leave.

- At TSP, we value all employees' contributions and are committed to communicating with our team members in advance when scheduling an absence or notifying the appropriate team member(s) before the start of the workday when an unscheduled absence occurs.
- Obtain manager approval at least two weeks in advance, when possible. Managers will review requests based on workload and schedules.
- Open Vacation is not Unlimited Vacation. If taking off more than one week in one stretch, additional consideration, planning and coordination with your manager, your team, and/or your client will be required.
- Requests for consecutive vacation time off greater than 80 hours will be considered a leave of absence and will not qualify as vacation under this policy. In these situations, the first two weeks will be paid time, but consecutive time off in excess of 80 hours will be an unpaid leave of absence. These rare situations will be handled on a case-by-case with management and Talent Management in advance of leave.
- Understand that due to staffing needs, not all leave requests can be granted. Advance requests are still subject to the appropriate approval.
- Enter all leave time on your timesheet and specify the type of leave taken.
- At minimum, you must take any time off that you are entitled to under applicable state or local laws. To allow time to rest and recharge, there is a company recommendation of two weeks (10 days) of open vacation taken per year. Five (5) of those days should be taken as a consecutive week. However, if you resign from TSP without taking any time off, and you do not have a prior existing accrual, you will not receive a payout of unused vacation.
- Set you "Out of Office Assistant" in Outlook and change your voicemail greeting to the appropriate out-of-office option.
- Meet all established goals despite your absences.

Except for those on protected leave (such as state or federal family and medical leave), if an eligible employee is unable to meet the expectations outlined above, TSP reserve the right to temporarily revoke open vacation. Further, if gross abuse of this leave is observed, disciplinary action may be taken, which may include termination of employment.

Verification

Managers reserve the right to request verification of absences (such as a doctor's note, military orders or jury summons) when legal and appropriate to do so.

As is the case with all policies TSP has the exclusive right to interpret, amend or terminate this policy in accordance with applicable laws.

End of Employment

If the employee's employment ends for any reason whatsoever, no unused vacation will be paid out.

As is the case with all policies TSP has the exclusive right to interpret, amend or terminate this policy in accordance with applicable laws.

3.4 Sick Time

TSP recognizes that employees will need days off from work from time to time to address their medical needs or the medical needs of a family member.

For this purpose, full-time employees will receive 80 hours of sick time per year in lump sum grant. Part-time employees will receive 40 hours of sick time in a lump sum grant. Sick time may be used for the employee's own illness or for the care of a sick child, spouse, domestic partner or parent. See Family Medical leave for specific details pertaining to that leave. Sick time is in addition to our Open Vacation policy.

A lump sum grant will be provided on January 1st of each new year and in each subsequent year if the employee remains eligible. For your first year of employment, sick time granted will be prorated.

Unused sick time granted under this policy does not carry over from one year to the following year and will expire at the end of the current calendar year.

Leave under this policy may be used in connection with the diagnosis, care or treatment of an existing health condition for, or the preventative care of, an employee or an employee's immediate family member. "Family Member" for purpose of this policy includes spouse, registered domestic partners, children (regardless of age), parent (including stepparents and parent-in-laws), grandparents and siblings. Leave under this policy may also be used for employees who are they victims of domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking.

Employees requesting time off under this policy should provide as much advance notice to their manager as possible.

Unused sick time under this policy is not paid out at the time of separation from employment. However, employees who are re-employed with the company within a year of separation will have their sick time that was granted under this policy for that year made available to them for the remainder of the year.

Leave under this policy may run concurrently with leave taken under other applicable policies as well as under local, state or federal law, including leave taken pursuant to state-specific family leave laws or the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA).

For more information regarding sick time under this policy, contact Talent Management

Existing leave laws such as FMLA, Jury Duty, Bereavement, Military Leave, etc. remain intact.

3.5 Lunch and Break Periods

Employee meal periods are important to company productivity and employee health. Employees who work at least 5 consecutive hours will be provided a meal break not to exceed 60 minutes. Meal periods are not counted toward worked hours as long as the employee is completely relieved from duty during the meal period.

It is the policy of TSP to comply with individual state and federal laws regarding meals and breaks.

Employees are also allowed paid rest breaks for personal needs such as smoking, restroom breaks or personal phone calls, so long as they do not become excessive. Breaks should not be permitted at either the beginning or end of the workday to offset arrival and/or departure times.

Breaks that become frequent in nature can affect job performance and be a cause for disciplinary action. Failure of non-exempt employees to return on time from breaks or lunch will subject the employee to disciplinary action and docking of pay for time missed.

3.6 Lactation Breaks

TSP will provide a reasonable amount of break time to accommodate an employee desiring to express breast milk for the employee's infant child, in accordance with and to the extent required by applicable law. The break time, if possible, must run concurrently with rest and meal periods already provided to the employee. If the break time cannot run concurrently with rest and meal periods already provided to the employee, the break time will be unpaid, subject to applicable law.

The Company will make reasonable efforts to provide employees with the use of a room or location other than a toilet stall for the employee to express milk in private. This location may be the employee's private office, if applicable. The Company may not be able to provide additional break time if doing so would seriously disrupt the Company's operations, subject to applicable law. Please consult the Talent Management Department if you have questions regarding this policy.

Employees should advise management if they need break time and an area for this purpose. Employees will not be discriminated against or retaliated against for exercising their rights under this policy.

3.7 Workers' Compensation

On-the-job injuries are covered by our Workers' Compensation Insurance Policy, which is provided at no cost. If employees are injured on the job, no matter how slightly, they should report the incident immediately to their Manager. Failure to follow Company procedures may affect the ability of the employee to receive Workers Compensation benefits.

This is solely a monetary benefit and not a leave of absence entitlement. Employees who need to miss work due to a workplace injury must also request a formal leave of absence. See the Leave of Absence sections of this handbook for more information.

3.8 Jury and Witness Duty

TSP realizes that it is the obligation of all U.S. citizens to serve on a jury when summoned to do so. All employees will be allowed time off to perform such civic service as required by law. Employees are expected, however, to provide proper notice of a request to perform jury duty and verification of their service.

Employees also are expected to keep management informed of the expected length of jury duty service and to report to work for the major portion of the day if excused by the court. If the required absence presents a serious conflict for management, employees may be asked to try to postpone jury duty.

The employees on jury duty will be compensated for the time away from the workplace up to 10 working days per year, unless otherwise required by law, and may retain juror's fees. Employees subpoenaed as a witness may take available Open Vacation for this time.

Jury and witness duty are not included as "hours physically worked" for the purposes of overtime calculations.

3.9 Bereavement Leave

We want to support employees experiencing the loss of a loved one and allow them time to mourn and cope. Employees may take bereavement leave for a family member or close friend. In the event of loss, your manager will grant you time off work. The amount of approved time off will be determined by your manager, however, typically an employee may be granted three days (in-state) and five days (out-of-state) bereavement leave with pay. Typically, we do not require proof of a death; however, a manager may request proof of travel supporting the reason for an extended leave.

See Talent Management about the Employee Assistance Program for grief support.

Bereavement leave is not included as "hours physically worked" for purposes of overtime calculations.

3.10 Voting Leave

In the event an employee does not have sufficient time outside of working hours to vote in a statewide election, if required by state law, the employee may take off enough working time to vote. Such time will be paid if required by state law. This time should be taken at the beginning or end of the regular work schedule. Where possible, your Manager should be notified at least two days prior to the voting day.

3.11 Insurance Programs

Full-time employees may participate in the Company's insurance programs. Under these plans, eligible employees will receive comprehensive health, life and leave benefit coverage for themselves and their families, as well as other benefits.

Upon becoming eligible to participate in these plans, please refer to the Summary Plan Descriptions (SPDs) kept within the CSC knowledge base for detailed plan information. Of course, feel free to speak to Talent Management if you have any further questions.

3.12 Long Term Disability

Full-time employees are eligible to participate in the Long-Term Disability plan, subject to all terms and conditions of the agreement between TSP and the insurance carrier. This is solely a monetary benefit and not a leave of absence. Employees who will be out of work must also request a formal leave of absence. See the Leave of Absence sections of this handbook for more information.

3.13 Short Term Disability

TSP provides short-term disability benefits to full-time employees. These enhanced monetary benefits are inclusive of any monetary workers' compensation or statutory short-term disability benefits.

This is not a leave of absence provision. Employees who will be out of work must request a leave of absence. See the Leave of Absence sections of this handbook for more information. Employees will be required to submit medical certification as requested by TSP. Required medical certification under this policy may differ from the medical certification required for any leave of absence requested.

3.14 Employee Assistance Program

TSP provides an employee assistance program (EAP) for employees. This program offers qualified counselors to help you cope with personal problems you may be facing, including grief.

Further details can be obtained through CSC knowledge base and Talent Management.

3.15 Employee Referral Program

TSP is always looking for quality people. The purpose of the TSP Employee Referral Program is to partner with our most valuable resource: you....our employees. You know our culture, know the type of person that would succeed in our environment, and most of all, you know the people. This program will allow us to share in the success of identifying the right talent at the right time and for the right job at TSP.

If you know someone who would be a good addition to TSP and they meet the qualifications for an existing open requisition, we want to make it worthwhile for you to refer them for employment with TSP.

Please make sure your candidate lets the TSP recruiter know that they are a referral. The candidate should provide your name in initial communications/conversations about job openings. You, as the referring employee, may also follow up with the TSP recruiting team prior to hire and let them know you have a candidate for referral.

Payout Structure for Hourly or Salary

Hourly	$500
Salary	$750

Program Rules

All active full-time or part-time TSP employees are eligible to receive a referral bonus payout.

Temporary, part-time, summer, contract positions and former candidates and/or former employees will not be eligible candidates to qualify you for referral awards. We would still love for them to apply for employment!

To be eligible for an award, the candidate must supply the referring employee's name to their TSP recruiter during initial conversations. It is best to have the candidate put the referring employee's name at the bottom of their cover letter or resume upon submittal.

The hiring manager and direct line management with influence over hiring decisions are not eligible to receive a referral bonus for direct report positions.

Any disputes or interpretations of the program will be handled through Talent Management.

All referral bonus payments will be paid after the candidate completes 90 days of employment from their date of hire at TSP. Both you and your referral must be actively employed with TSP at the time of payout.

Selection Procedures

The applicant will be reviewed through the standard TSP hiring procedures. All information regarding the reason to hire or not to hire an applicant will remain confidential, to the greatest extent possible.

3.16 401(k) Retirement Plan

All employees, first of next month after hire (unless hired on the first of the month, in which case it's immediate) will be automatically enrolled in TSP's 401(k) Retirement Plan. Opting out of this program must be handled with the provider directly. This plan will allow the Company to vary the matches on a quarterly basis to match the successes of the Company.

Please refer to your Plan Summary Documents or search "401(k)" on the CSC knowledge base for the most current and more detailed information.

Section 4 – Leaves of Absence

4.1 Personal Leave

If employees are ineligible for any other Company leave of absence, TSP, under certain circumstances, may grant a personal leave of absence without pay. A written request for a personal leave should be presented to management at least two (2) weeks before the anticipated start of the leave. If the leave is requested for medical reasons and employees are not eligible for leave under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) or any state leave law, medical certification also must be submitted. The request will be considered on the basis of staffing requirements and the reasons for the requested leave, as well as performance and attendance records. Normally, a leave of absence will be granted for a period of up to four (4) weeks. However, a personal leave may be extended if, prior to the end of leave, employees submit a written request for an extension to management and the request is granted. We will continue health insurance coverage during the leave if employees submit their share of the monthly premium payments to the Company in a timely manner, subject to the terms of the plan documents.

When the employee anticipates returning to work, they should notify management of the expected return date. This notification should be made at least one week before the end of the leave.

Upon completion of the personal leave of absence, the Company will attempt to return employees to their original job or a similar position, subject to prevailing business considerations. Reinstatement, however, is not guaranteed.

Failure to advise management of availability to return to work, failure to return to work when notified or a continued absence from work beyond the time approved by the Company will be considered a voluntary resignation of employment.

4.2 Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault, Stalking Leave

TSP provides reasonable and necessary unpaid leave and other reasonable accommodations to employees who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking to attend legal proceedings or obtain other needed relief, as required by state and Federal law.

To request an accommodation under this policy, an employee should contact Talent Management. The Company will engage the employee in a timely, good faith and interactive process to determine effective reasonable accommodations.

4.3 Military Leave

In 2008 the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) was amended to provide employees with family members serving in the armed forces, National Guard and Reserves with FMLA leave for reasons related to their family members' military service. In 2010 the FMLA was again amended, expanding the military-related leave protections. See the FML policy in this handbook for further info.

In addition, the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA) is a federal law that establishes various rights and benefits for employees and applicants for employment who have served in the military or have engaged in other forms of protected governmental service. USERRA requires employers to provide leaves of absence and to re-employ workers who enter military service while employed.

Employees who are members of an active reserve unit of a U.S. military service or a state National Guard will be given the necessary time off to fulfill the federal or state minimum annual training requirements. Included in military leave is reasonable time for traveling to and from military service and time for physical examinations. Employees must provide their manager and Talent Management with a copy of the official orders or instructions within a reasonable time of their receipt of these documents. TSP employees who are military will receive full pay for 80 hours of military leave per year. After that point, employees will be paid the shortage between their regular TSP compensation (not including commissions, bonuses or discretionary compensation) and their service pay for the remaining period up to a total of 31 days of leave. All Company benefits will be continued during such leave, also for a period of up to 31 days. After that point, COBRA benefits will be offered. Please see Talent Management for more details on USERRA and re-employment after military leave.

Please contact MetLife Leave Administration for all leave requests expected to be 14 days or longer. Military leave is not included as "hours physically worked" for purposes of overtime calculations.

4.4 Family Medical Leave

Employees may be entitled to a leave of absence under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA). This policy provides employees information concerning FMLA entitlements and obligations employees may have during such leaves. If employees have any questions concerning FMLA leave, they should contact the Head of Talent Management or TSP's Leave Service Provider.

I. Eligibility

FMLA leave is available to "eligible employees." An "eligible employee," is one who: 1) has been employed by the Company for at least 12 months (which need not be consecutive); 2) has been employed by the Company for at least 1,250 hours of service during the 12-month period immediately preceding the commencement of the leave; and 3) is employed at a worksite where 50 or more employees are located within 75 miles of the worksite.

II. Entitlements

As described below, the FMLA provides eligible employees with a right to leave, health insurance benefits and, with some limited exceptions, job restoration.

A. Basic FMLA Leave Entitlement

The FMLA provides eligible employees up to 12 workweeks of unpaid leave for certain family and medical reasons during a 12-month period. The 12-month period is determined based on a rolling 12-month period measured backward from the date an employee uses their FMLA leave. Leave may be taken for any one, or for a combination, of the following reasons:

- To care for the employee's child after birth or placement for adoption or foster care;
- To care for the employee's spouse, son, daughter or parent (but not in-law) who has a serious health condition;

For the employee's own serious health condition (including any period of incapacity due to pregnancy, prenatal medical care or childbirth) that makes the employee unable to perform one or more of the essential functions of the employee's job; and/or because of any qualifying exigency arising out of the fact that an employee's spouse, son, daughter or parent is a military member on covered active duty or called to covered active duty status (or has been notified of an impending call or order to covered active duty) in the Reserves component of the Armed Forces for deployment to a foreign country in support of contingency operation or Regular Armed Forces for deployment to a foreign country.

A serious health condition is an illness, injury, impairment or physical or mental condition that involves either an overnight stay in a medical care facility, or continuing treatment by a health care provider for a condition that either prevents the employee from performing the functions of the employee's job or prevents the qualified family member from participating in school or other daily activities. Subject to certain conditions, the continuing treatment requirement may be met by a period of incapacity of more than 3 consecutive calendar days combined with at least two visits to a healthcare provider or one visit and a regimen of continuing treatment, or incapacity due to pregnancy, or incapacity due to a chronic condition. Other conditions may meet the definition of continuing treatment.

Qualifying exigencies may include attending certain military events, arranging for alternative childcare, addressing certain financial and legal arrangements, attending certain counseling sessions, caring for the parents of the military member on covered active duty and attending post- deployment reintegration briefings.

B. Additional Military Family Leave Entitlement (Injured Servicemember Leave)

In addition to the basic FMLA leave entitlement discussed above, an eligible employee who is the spouse, son, daughter, parent or next of kin of a covered servicemember is entitled to take up to 26 weeks of leave during a single 12-month period to care for the servicemember with a serious injury or illness. Leave to care for a servicemember shall only be available during a single-12-month period and, when combined with other FMLA-qualifying leave, may not exceed 26 weeks during the single 12-month period. The single 12-month period begins on the first day an eligible employee takes leave to care for the injured servicemember.

A "covered servicemember" is a current member of the Armed Forces, including a member of the National Guard or Reserves, who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy, is otherwise in outpatient status or is on the temporary retired list, for a serious injury or illness. These individuals are referred to in this policy as "current members of the Armed Forces."

Covered servicemembers also include a veteran who is discharged or released from military services under condition other than dishonorable at any time during the five years preceding the date the eligible employee takes FMLA leave to care for the covered veteran, and who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy for a serious injury or illness. These individuals are referred to in this policy as "covered veterans."

The FMLA definitions of a "serious injury or illness" for current Armed Forces members and covered veterans are distinct from the FMLA definition of "serious health condition" applicable to FMLA leave to care for a covered family member.

C. Intermittent Leave and Reduced Leave Schedules

FMLA leave usually will be taken for a period of consecutive days, weeks or months. However, employees also are entitled to take FMLA leave intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule when medically necessary due to a serious health condition of the employee or covered family member or the serious injury or illness of a covered servicemember. Qualifying exigency leave also may be taken on an intermittent basis.

D. No Work While on Leave

The taking of another job while on family/medical leave or any other authorized leave of absence is grounds for immediate discharge, to the extent permitted by law.

E. Protection of Group Health Insurance Benefits

During FMLA leave, eligible employees are entitled to receive group health plan coverage on the same terms and conditions as if they had continued to work.

F. Restoration of Employment and Benefits

At the end of FMLA leave, subject to some exceptions including situations where job restoration of "key employees" will cause the Company substantial and grievous economic injury, employees generally have a right to return to the same or equivalent positions with equivalent pay, benefits and other employment terms. TSP will notify employees if they qualify as "key employees," if it intends to deny reinstatement, and of their rights in such instances. Use of FMLA leave will not result in the loss of any employment benefit that accrued prior to the start of an eligible employee's FMLA leave.

G. Notice of Eligibility for, and Designation of, FMLA Leave

Employees requesting FMLA leave are entitled to receive written notice from the Company telling them whether they are eligible for FMLA leave and, if not eligible, the reasons why they are not eligible. When eligible for FMLA leave, employees are entitled to receive written notice of: 1) their rights and responsibilities in connection with such leave; 2) Company's designation of leave as FMLA-qualifying or non-qualifying, and if not FMLA-qualifying, the reasons why; and 3) the amount of leave, if known, that will be counted against the employee's leave entitlement.

TSP may retroactively designate leave as FMLA leave with appropriate written notice to employees provided the Company's failure to designate leave as FMLA-qualifying at an earlier date did not cause harm or injury to the employee. In all cases where leaves qualify for FMLA protection, the Company and employee can mutually agree that leave be retroactively designated as FMLA leave.

III. Employee FMLA Leave Obligations

A. Provide Notice of the Need for Leave

Employees who take FMLA leave must timely notify TSP of their need for FMLA leave. The following describes the content and timing of such employee notices.

1. Content of Employee Notice

To trigger FMLA leave protections, employees must inform their Manager of the need for FMLA-qualifying leave and the anticipated timing and duration of the leave, if known. Employees may do this by either requesting FMLA leave specifically or explaining the reasons for leave so as to allow the Company to determine that the leave is FMLA-qualifying. For example, employees might explain that:

- a medical condition renders them unable to perform the functions of their job;
- they are pregnant or have been hospitalized overnight;
- they or a covered family member are under the continuing care of a health care provider;
- the leave is due to a qualifying exigency caused by a military member being on covered active duty or called to covered active duty status to a foreign country; or
- if the leave is for a family member, that the condition renders the family member unable to perform daily activities or that the family member is a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness.

Calling in "sick," without providing the reasons for the needed leave, will not be considered sufficient notice for FMLA leave under this policy. Employees must respond to the Company's questions to determine if absences are potentially FMLA-qualifying.

If employees fail to explain the reasons for FMLA leave, the leave may be denied. When employees seek leave due to FMLA-qualifying reasons for which the Company has previously provided FMLA-protected leave, they must specifically reference the qualifying reason for the leave or the need for FMLA leave.

2. Timing of Employee Notice

Employees must provide 30 days' advance notice of the need to take FMLA leave when the need is foreseeable. When 30 days' notice is not possible, or the approximate timing of the need for leave is not foreseeable, employees must provide the Company notice of the need for leave as soon as practicable under the facts and circumstances of the particular case. Employees who fail to give 30 days' notice for foreseeable leave without a reasonable excuse for the delay, or otherwise fail to satisfy FMLA notice obligations, may have FMLA leave delayed or denied.

B. Cooperate in the Scheduling of Planned Medical Treatment (Including Accepting Transfers to Alternative Positions) and Intermittent Leave or Reduced Leave Schedules

When planning medical treatment, employees must consult with TSP and make a reasonable effort to schedule treatment so as not to unduly disrupt the Company's operations, subject to the approval of an employee's health care provider. Employees must consult with the Company prior to the scheduling of treatment to work out a treatment schedule that best suits the needs of both the Company and the employees, subject to the approval of an employee's health care provider. If employees providing notice of the need to take FMLA leave on an intermittent basis for planned medical treatment neglect to fulfill this obligation, the Company may require employees to attempt to make such arrangements, subject to the approval of the employee's health care provider.

When employees take intermittent or reduced work schedule leave for foreseeable planned medical treatment for the employee or a family member, including during a period of recovery from a serious health condition or to care for a covered servicemember, the Company may temporarily transfer employees, during the period that the intermittent or reduced leave schedules are required, to alternative positions with equivalent pay and benefits for which the employees are qualified and which better accommodate recurring periods of leave.

When employees seek intermittent leave or a reduced leave schedule for reasons unrelated to the planning of medical treatment, upon request, employees must advise the Company of the reason why such leave is medically necessary. In such instances, the Company and employee shall attempt to work out a leave schedule that meets the employee's needs without unduly disrupting the Company's operations, subject to the approval of the employee's health care provider.

C. Submit Medical Certifications Supporting Need for FMLA Leave (Unrelated to Requests for Military Family Leave)

Depending on the nature of FMLA leave sought, employees may be required to submit medical certifications supporting their need for FMLA-qualifying leave. As described below, there generally are three types of FMLA medical certifications: an initial certification, a recertification and a return to work/fitness for duty certification.

It is the employee's responsibility to provide TSP with timely, complete and sufficient medical certifications. Whenever the Company requests employees to provide FMLA medical certifications, employees must provide the requested certifications within 15 calendar days after the Company's request, unless it is not practicable to do so despite an employee's diligent, good faith efforts. The Company will inform employees if submitted medical certifications are incomplete or insufficient and provide employees at least seven calendar days to cure deficiencies. The Company will deny FMLA leave to employees who fail to timely cure deficiencies or otherwise fail to timely submit requested medical certifications.

With the employee's permission, the Company (through individuals other than an employee's direct manager) may contact the employee's health care provider to authenticate or clarify completed and sufficient medical certifications. If employees choose not to provide the Company with authorization allowing it to clarify or authenticate certifications with health care providers, the Company may deny FMLA leave if certifications are unclear.

Whenever the Company deems it appropriate to do so, it may waive its right to receive timely, complete and/or sufficient FMLA medical certifications.

1. Initial Medical Certifications

Employees requesting leave because of their own, or a covered relation's, serious health condition, or to care for a covered servicemember, must supply medical certification supporting the need for such leave from their health care provider or, if applicable, the health care provider of their covered family or service member. If employees provide at least 30 days' notice of medical leave, they should submit the medical certification before leave begins. A new initial medical certification will be required on an annual basis for serious medical conditions lasting beyond a single leave year.

If TSP has reason to doubt initial medical certifications, it may require employees to obtain a second opinion at the Company's expense. If the opinions of the initial and second health care providers differ, the Company may, at its expense, require employees to obtain a third, final and binding certification from a health care provider designated or approved jointly by the Company and the employee.

2. Medical Recertifications

Depending on the circumstances and duration of FMLA leave, the Company may require employees to provide recertification of medical conditions giving rise to the need for leave. The Company will notify employees if recertification is required and will give employees at least 15 calendar days to provide medical recertification.

3. Return to Work/Fitness for Duty Medical Certifications

Unless notified that providing such certifications is not necessary, employees returning to work from FMLA leaves that were taken because of their own serious health conditions that made them unable to perform their jobs must provide the Company with medical certification confirming they are able to return to work and the employees' ability to perform the essential functions of the employees' position, with or without reasonable accommodation. For more information, please see the TSP ADA and ADAAA policy on the CSC knowledge base. The Company may delay and/or deny job restoration until employees provide return to work/fitness for duty certifications.

D. Submit Certifications Supporting Need for Military Family Leave

Upon request, the first time employees seek leave due to qualifying exigencies arising out of the covered active duty or call to covered active duty status of a military member, the Company may require employees to provide: 1) a copy of the military member's active duty orders or other documentation issued by the military indicating the military member is on covered active duty or call to covered active duty status and the dates of the military member's covered active duty service; and 2) a certification from the employee setting forth information concerning the nature of the qualifying exigency for which leave is requested. Employees shall provide a copy of new active duty orders or other documentation issued by the military for leaves arising out of qualifying exigencies arising out of a different covered active duty or call to covered active duty status of the same or a different military member.

When leave is taken to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness, TSP may require employees to obtain certifications completed by an authorized health care provider of the covered servicemember. In addition, and in accordance with the FMLA regulations, the Company may request that the certification submitted by employees set forth additional information provided by the employee and/or the covered servicemember confirming entitlement to such leave.

E. Substitute Paid Leave for Unpaid FMLA Leave

Employees must use any accrued paid time while taking unpaid FMLA leave.

The substitution of paid time for unpaid FMLA leave time does not extend the length of FMLA leave and the paid time will run concurrently with an employee's FMLA entitlement.

Leaves of absence taken in connection with a disability leave plan or workers' compensation injury/illness shall run concurrently with any FMLA leave entitlement. Upon written request, the Company will allow employees to use accrued paid time to supplement any paid disability benefits.

F. Pay Employee's Share of Health Insurance Premiums

During FMLA leave, employees are entitled to continued group health plan coverage under the same conditions as if they had continued to work. Unless the Company notifies employees of other arrangements, whenever employees are receiving pay from the Company during FMLA leave, the Company will deduct the employee portion of the group health plan premium from the employee's paycheck in the same manner as if the employee was actively working.

If FMLA leave is unpaid, employees must pay their portion of the group health premium through a method determined by TSP upon leave.

The Company's obligation to maintain health care coverage ceases if an employee's premium payment is more than 30 days late. If an employee's payment is more than 15 days late, the Company will send a letter notifying the employee that coverage will be dropped on a specified date unless the co-payment is received before that date. If employees do not return to work within 30 calendar days at the end of the leave period (unless employees cannot return to work because of a serious health condition or other circumstances beyond their control), they will be required to reimburse the Company for the cost of the premiums the Company paid for maintaining coverage during their unpaid FMLA leave.

IV. Questions and/or Complaints about FMLA Leave

If you have questions regarding this FMLA policy, please contact the Head of Talent Management. TSP is committed to complying with the FMLA and, whenever necessary, shall interpret and apply this policy in a manner consistent with the FMLA.

The FMLA makes it unlawful for employers to: 1) interfere with, restrain or deny the exercise of any right provided under FMLA; or 2) discharge or discriminate against any person for opposing any practice made unlawful by FMLA or involvement in any proceeding under or relating to FMLA. If employees believe their FMLA rights have been violated, they should contact the Head of Talent Management immediately. The Company will investigate any FMLA complaints and take prompt and appropriate remedial action to address and/or remedy any FMLA violation. Employees also may file FMLA complaints with the United States Department of Labor or may bring private lawsuits alleging FMLA violations.

V. Coordination of FMLA Leave with Other Leave Policies

The FMLA does not affect any federal, state or local law prohibiting discrimination, or supersede any State or local law that provides greater family or medical leave rights. For additional information concerning leave entitlements and obligations that might arise when FMLA leave is either not available or exhausted, please consult the Company's other leave policies in this handbook or contact the Head of Talent Management.

Section 5 – General Standards of Conduct and Ethics

5.1 Conduct

Build Trust and Credibility

The success of our business is dependent on the trust and confidence we earn from our employees, customers and shareholders. We gain credibility by adhering to our commitments, displaying honesty and integrity and reaching company goals solely through honorable conduct. It is easy to say what we must do, but the proof is in our actions. Ultimately, we will be judged on what we do.

When considering any action, it is wise to ask: Will this build trust and credibility for TSP? Will it help create a working environment in which TSP can succeed over the long term? Is the commitment I am making one I can follow through with? The only way we will maximize trust and credibility is by answering “yes” to those questions and by working every day to build our trust and credibility.

Respect for the Individual

We all deserve to work in an environment where we are treated with dignity and respect. TSP is committed to creating such an environment because it brings out the full potential in each of us, which, in turn, contributes directly to our business success. We cannot afford to let anyone’s talents go to waste.

TSP is an equal employment/affirmative action employer and is committed to providing a workplace that is free of discrimination of all types and from abusive, offensive or harassing behavior. Any employee who feels harassed or discriminated against should report the incident to their manager or to Talent Management.

Create a Culture of Open and Honest Communication

At TSP everyone should feel comfortable to speak their mind, particularly with respect to ethics concerns. Managers have a responsibility to create an open and supportive environment where employees feel comfortable raising such questions. We all benefit tremendously when employees exercise their power to prevent mistakes or wrongdoing by asking the right questions at the right times.

TSP will investigate all reported instances of questionable or unethical behavior. In every instance where improper behavior is found to have occurred, the Company will take appropriate action. We will not tolerate retaliation against employees who raise genuine ethics concerns in good faith.

Employees are encouraged, in the first instance, to address such issues with their managers or Talent Management, as most problems can be resolved swiftly. If for any reason that is not possible or if an employee is not comfortable raising the issue with their manager or Talent Management, TSP's CEO, Frank Gonzalez, does operate with an open-door policy.

Set Tone at the Top

Management has the added responsibility for demonstrating, through their actions, the importance of this Code. In any business, ethical behavior does not simply happen; it is the product of clear and direct communication of behavioral expectations, modeled from the top and demonstrated by example. Again, ultimately, our actions are what matters.

To make our Code work, managers must be responsible for promptly addressing ethical questions or concerns raised by employees and for taking the appropriate steps to deal with such issues. Managers should not consider employees' ethics concerns as threats or challenges to their authority, but rather as another encouraged form of business communication. At TSP, we want the ethics dialogue to become a natural part of daily work.

Uphold the Law

TSP's commitment to integrity begins with complying with laws, rules and regulations where we do business. Further, each of us must have an understanding of the Company policies, laws, rules and regulations that apply to our specific roles. If we are unsure of whether a contemplated action is permitted by law or TSP policy, we should seek the advice from the resource expert. We are responsible for preventing violations of law and for speaking up if we see possible violations.

Because of the nature of our business, some legal requirements warrant specific mention here.

Competition

We are dedicated to ethical, fair and vigorous competition. We will sell TSP services based on their merit, superior quality and competitive pricing. We will make independent pricing and marketing decisions and will not improperly cooperate or coordinate our activities with our competitors. We will not offer or solicit improper payments or gratuities in connection with the purchase of goods or services for TSP or the sales of its services, nor will we engage or assist in unlawful boycotts of particular customers.

Selective Disclosure

We will not selectively disclose (whether in one-on-one or small discussions, meetings, presentations, proposals or otherwise) any material nonpublic information with respect to TSP, its securities, business operations, plans, financial condition, results of operations or any development plan. We should be particularly vigilant when making presentations or proposals to customers to ensure that our presentations do not contain material nonpublic information.

Health and Safety

TSP is dedicated to maintaining a healthy environment. A safety manual has been designed to educate you on safety in the workplace and is kept in the CSC knowledge base. If you cannot locate a copy of this manual, please see the Talent Management department.

Avoid Conflicts of Interest

Conflicts of Interest

We must avoid any relationship or activity that might impair, or even appear to impair, our ability to make objective and fair decisions when performing our jobs. At times, we may be faced with situations where the business actions we take on behalf of TSP may conflict with our own personal or family interests. We owe a duty to TSP to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises. We must never use TSP property or information for personal gain or personally take for ourselves any opportunity that is discovered through our position with TSP.

Here are some other ways in which conflicts of interest could arise:

1. Being employed (you or a close family member) by, or acting as a consultant to, a competitor or potential competitor, supplier or contractor, regardless of the nature of the employment, while you are employed with TSP.
2. Serving as a board member for an outside commercial company or organization without prior approval.
3. Owning or having a substantial interest in a competitor, supplier or contractor.
4. Having a personal interest, financial interest or potential gain in any TSP transaction.
5. Placing company business with a firm owned or controlled by a TSP employee or their family.
6. Accepting gifts, discounts, favors or services from a customer/potential customer, competitor or supplier, unless equally available to all TSP employees.

Determining whether a conflict of interest exists is not always easy to do. Employees with a conflict of interest question should seek advice from management. Before engaging in any activity, transaction or relationship that might give rise to a conflict of interest, employees must seek review from their managers or the Talent Management department.

Gifts, Gratuities and Business Courtesies

TSP is committed to competing solely on the merit of our services. We should avoid any actions that create a perception that favorable treatment of outside entities by TSP was sought, received or given in exchange for personal business courtesies. Business courtesies include gifts, gratuities, meals, refreshments, entertainment or other benefits from persons or companies with whom TSP does or may do business. We will neither give nor accept business courtesies that constitute, or could reasonably be perceived as constituting, unfair business inducements that would violate law, regulation or policies of TSP or customers, or would cause embarrassment or reflect negatively on TSP's reputation.

Accepting Business Courtesies

Most business courtesies offered to us in the course of our employment are offered because of our positions at TSP. We should not feel any entitlement to accept and keep a business courtesy. Although we may not use our position at TSP to obtain business courtesies, and we must never ask for them, we may accept unsolicited business courtesies that promote successful working relationships and good will with the firms that TSP maintains or may establish a business relationship with.

Employees who award contracts or who can influence the allocation of business, who create specifications that result in the placement of business or who participate in negotiation of contracts must be particularly careful to avoid actions that create the appearance of favoritism or that may adversely affect the Company's reputation for impartiality and fair dealing. The prudent course is to refuse a courtesy from a supplier when TSP is involved in choosing or reconfirming a supplier or under circumstances that would create an impression that offering courtesies is the way to obtain TSP business.

Meals, Refreshments and Entertainment

We may accept occasional meals, refreshments, entertainment and similar business courtesies that are shared with the person who has offered to pay for the meal or entertainment, provided that:

- They are not inappropriately lavish or excessive.
- The courtesies are not frequent and do not reflect a pattern of frequent acceptance of courtesies from the same person or entity.
- The courtesy does not create the appearance of an attempt to influence business decisions, such as accepting courtesies or entertainment from a supplier whose contract is expiring in the near future.
- The employee accepting the business courtesy would not feel uncomfortable discussing the courtesy with their manager or co-worker or having the courtesies known by the public.

Gifts

Employees may accept unsolicited gifts, other than money, that conform to the reasonable ethical practices of the marketplace, including:

- Flowers, fruit baskets and other modest presents that commemorate a special occasion.
- Gifts of nominal value, such as calendars, pens, mugs, caps and t-shirts (or other novelty, advertising or promotional items).

Generally, employees may not accept compensation, honoraria or money of any amount from entities with whom TSP does or may do business. Tangible gifts (including tickets to a sporting or entertainment event) that have a market value greater than $500 may not be accepted unless approval is obtained from management.

Employees with questions about accepting business courtesies should talk to their managers or the Talent Management department.

Offering Business Courtesies

Any employee who offers a business courtesy must assure that it cannot reasonably be interpreted as an attempt to gain an unfair business advantage or otherwise reflect negatively upon TSP. An employee may never use personal funds or resources to do something that cannot be done with TSP resources. Accounting for business courtesies must be done in accordance with approved company procedures.

Other than to our government customers, for whom special rules apply, we may provide nonmonetary gifts (i.e., company logo apparel or similar promotional items) to our customers. Further, management may approve other courtesies, including meals, refreshments or entertainment of reasonable value, provided that:

- The practice does not violate any law or regulation or the standards of conduct of the recipient's organization.
- The business courtesy is consistent with industry practice, is infrequent in nature and is not lavish.
- The business courtesy is properly reflected on the books and records of TSP

Set Metrics and Report Results Accurately

Accurate Public Disclosures

We will make certain that all disclosures made in financial reports and public documents are full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable. This obligation applies to all employees, including all financial executives, with any responsibility for the preparation for such reports, including drafting, reviewing and signing or certifying the information contained therein. No business goal of any kind is ever an excuse for misrepresenting facts or falsifying records.

Employees should inform Executive Management and the Talent Management department if they learn that information in any filing or public communication was untrue or misleading at the time it was made or if subsequent information would affect a similar future filing or public communication.

Corporate Recordkeeping

We create, retain and dispose of our company records as part of our normal course of business in compliance with all TSP policies and guidelines, as well as all regulatory and legal requirements.

All corporate records must be true, accurate and complete, and company data must be promptly and accurately entered in our books in accordance with TSP's and other applicable accounting principles.

We must not improperly influence, manipulate or mislead any unauthorized audit, nor interfere with any auditor engaged to perform an internal independent audit of TSP books, records, processes or internal controls.

Promote Substance Over Form

At times, we are all faced with decisions we would rather not have to make and issues we would prefer to avoid. Sometimes, we hope that if we avoid confronting a problem, it will simply go away.

At TSP, we must have the courage to tackle the tough decisions and make difficult choices, secure in the knowledge that TSP is committed to doing the right thing. At times this will mean doing more than simply what the law requires. Merely because we can pursue a course of action does not mean we should do so.

Although TSP's guiding principles cannot address every issue or provide answers to every dilemma, they can define the spirit in which we intend to do business and should guide us in our daily conduct.

Accountability

Each of us is responsible for knowing and adhering to the values and standards set forth in this Code and for raising questions if we are uncertain about company policy. If we are concerned whether the standards are being met or are aware of violations of the Code, we must contact the Talent Management department.

TSP takes seriously the standards set forth in the Code, and violations are cause for disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Be Loyal

Confidential and Proprietary Information

Integral to TSP's business success is our protection of confidential company information, as well as nonpublic information entrusted to us by employees, customers and other business partners. Confidential and proprietary information includes such things as pricing and financial data, customer names/addresses or nonpublic information about other companies, including current or potential supplier and vendors. We will not disclose confidential and nonpublic information without a valid business purpose and proper authorization.

Media Inquiries

TSP is a respected company in our community, and from time to time, employees may be approached by reporters and other members of the media. In order to ensure that we speak with one voice and provide accurate information about the Company, we should direct all media inquiries to the VP of Talent and Brand. No one may issue a press release without first consulting with the VP of Talent and Brand.

Do the Right Thing

Several key questions can help identify situations that may be unethical, inappropriate or illegal. Ask yourself:

- Does what I am doing comply with the TSP guiding principles, Code of Conduct and company policies?
- Have I been asked to misrepresent information or deviate from normal procedure?
- Would I feel comfortable describing my decision at a staff meeting?
- How would it look if it made the headlines?
- Am I being loyal to my family, my company and myself?
- What would I tell my child to do?
- Is this the right thing to do?

A Whistleblower Policy is intended to encourage and enable employees and others to raise serious concerns internally so that the Company may address and correct inappropriate conduct and actions.

It is contrary to the values of TSP to retaliate against anyone who - in good faith - reports an ethics violation, or a suspected violation of law such as a complaint of discrimination or suspected fraud.

We suggest that employees share their questions, concerns, suggestions or complaints with their manager. If you are not comfortable speaking with your manager or you are not satisfied with your manager's response, you are encouraged to speak with any of the following:

5.2 Confidentiality

Upon employment, the employee will be required to sign an Employment Agreement. Due to the nature of our business, TSP considers all information about its procedures, systems, products, services, employees, customers and business partners to be highly confidential. Confidential and sensitive information is not to be disclosed except as authorized and properly required within a person's job function. Willful or unauthorized disclosure violates company policy and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Our computer network, including all data files, documents and information created, transmitted or stored on this system, is the property of TSP and may be accessed only by authorized personnel. Users should have no expectation of privacy with respect to the data files, documents and information stored on our computer system. Refer to TSP's Technology Use policy for more details.

5.3 Attendance and Punctuality

As with any group effort, operating effectively takes cooperation and commitment from everyone. Therefore, attendance and punctuality are very important. Unnecessary absences and lateness are expensive, disruptive and place an unfair burden on fellow employees and managers.

We expect excellent attendance from all employees. Excessive absenteeism or tardiness will result in disciplinary action up to and including discharge.

We do recognize, however, there are times when absences and tardiness cannot be avoided. In such cases, employees are expected to notify their manager as early as possible, but no later than the start of the work day. Asking another employee, friend or relative to give this notice is discouraged unless you are physically unable to do so. Employees should call, stating the nature of the illness and its expected duration, for every day of absenteeism. Failure to notify your manager of an impending tardy, may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Unreported absences of three (3) consecutive work days generally will be considered a voluntary resignation of employment with the Company.

5.4 Personal Appearance

You are expected to report to work well groomed, clean, and dressed according to the requirements of your position. Employees should make a conscious effort to reflect a good image of TSP and themselves as an individual. Some employees may be required to wear safety equipment/clothing. Please contact your Manager for specific information regarding acceptable attire for your position. If you report to work dressed or groomed inappropriately, you may be prevented from working until you return to work well-groomed and wearing the proper attire.

Jewelry, Tattoos, Piercings

TSP permits employees to wear jewelry or to display tattoos at the workplace within the following guidelines. Factors that management will consider to determine whether jewelry or tattoos may pose a conflict with the employee's job or work environment include:

- Personal safety of self or others, or damage to company property.
- Productivity or performance expectations.
- Offensiveness to co-workers, customers, vendors or others in the workplace based on racial, sexual, religious, ethnic, or other characteristics or attributes of a sensitive or legally protected nature.
- Corporate or societal norms.
- Customer complaints.

If management determines an employee's jewelry or tattoos may present such a conflict, the employee will be encouraged to identify appropriate options, such as removal of excess or offensive jewelry, covering of tattoos, transfer to an alternative position, or other reasonable means to resolve the conflict.

Accommodations

In the event that the above policy causes religious concerns or concerns based upon any other legally protected class, please contact Talent Management to discuss an appropriate religious accommodation.

5.5 Use of Communications and Computer Systems

TSP's communication, computer systems and various devices are intended primarily for business purposes; however limited personal usage is permitted if it does not hinder performance of job duties or violate any other Company policy. This includes the voice mail, e-mail and Internet systems. Users have no legitimate expectation of privacy in regard to their use of the TSP systems.

TSP may access the voice mail and e-mail systems and obtain the communications within the systems, including past voice mail and e-mail messages, without notice to users of the system, in the ordinary course of business when the Company deems it appropriate to do so. The reasons for which TSP may obtain such access include, but are not limited to: maintaining the system; preventing or investigating allegations of system abuse or misuse; assuring compliance with software copyright laws; complying with legal and regulatory requests for information; and ensuring that Company operations continue appropriately during an employee's absence.

Further, TSP may review Internet usage to ensure that such use with Company property, or communications sent via the Internet with Company property, are appropriate. The reasons for which the Company may review employees' use of the Internet with Company property include, but are not limited to: confirming company policies are being followed, maintaining the system; preventing or investigating allegations of system abuse or misuse; assuring compliance with software copyright laws; complying with legal and regulatory requests for information; and ensuring that Company operations continue appropriately during an employee's absence.

The Company may store electronic communications for a period of time after the communication is created. From time to time, copies of communications may be deleted.

The Company's policies prohibiting harassment, in their entirety, apply to the use of Company's communication and computer systems. No one may use any communication or computer system in a manner that may be construed by others as harassing or offensive based on race, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, religious beliefs or any other characteristic protected by federal, state or local law.

Further, since the Company's communication and computer systems are intended for business use, all employees, upon request, must inform management of any private access codes or passwords.

Unauthorized duplication of copyrighted computer software violates the law and is strictly prohibited.

No employee may access, or attempt to obtain access to, another employee's computer systems without appropriate authorization.

Violators of this policy may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

5.6 Social Media

TSP respects the right of any employee to maintain a blog or web page or to participate in a social networking, Twitter or similar site, including but not limited to Facebook and LinkedIn. However, to protect Company interests and ensure employees focus on their job duties, employees must adhere to the following rules:

Employees may not post on a blog or web page or participate on a social networking platform, such as Twitter or similar site, during work time.

All rules regarding confidential and proprietary business information apply in full to blogs, web pages and social networking platforms, such as Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn or similar sites. Any information that cannot be disclosed through a conversation, a note or an e-mail also cannot be disclosed in a blog, web page or social networking site.

Whether an employee is posting something on their own blog, web page, social networking, Twitter or similar site or on someone else's, if the employee mentions TSP and also expresses either a political opinion or an opinion regarding the Company's actions that could pose an actual or potential conflict of interest with the Company, the poster must include a disclaimer. The poster should specifically state that the opinion expressed is their personal opinion and not the Company's position. This is necessary to preserve the Company's good will in the marketplace.

Any conduct that is impermissible under the law if expressed in any other form or forum is impermissible if expressed through a blog, web page, social networking, Twitter or similar site. For example, posted material that is discriminatory, obscene, defamatory, libelous or violent is forbidden. Company policies apply equally to employee social media usage.

TSP encourages all employees to keep in mind the speed and manner in which information posted on a blog, web page, and/or social networking site is received and often misunderstood by readers. Employees must use their best judgment. Employees with any questions should review the guidelines above and/or consult with their manager. Failure to follow these guidelines may result in discipline, up to and including discharge.

5.7 Personal Devices

Employees using their own devices for business purposes should work with the IT department to configure their devices for business use. Communications sent via a personal mobile or laptop are also subject to monitoring if sent through TSP's networks and the device must be provided for inspection and review upon request.

All conversations, text messages and e-mails must be professional. When sending a text message or using any device for business purposes, whether it is a Company-provided or personal device, employees must comply with applicable Company guidelines, including policies on sexual harassment, discrimination, conduct, confidentiality, equipment use and operation of vehicles.

If an employee who uses a personal device for business resigns or is discharged, it's important to note that the IT department can reset and remove all information from the device, including but not limited to, Company information and personal data (such as contacts, e-mails and photographs). The employee should regularly back up personal data; however, the employee may lose some or all personal data saved on the device.

Employees may not use their personal devices for business unless they agree to give IT authority in resetting and removal of Company information. This is the only way currently possible to ensure that all Company information is removed from the device at the time of termination. The removal of Company information is crucial to ensure that the Company's confidential and proprietary information remains protected.

Please note that whether employees use their personal device or a Company-issued device, the Company's electronic communications policies, including but not limited to, proper use of communications and computer systems, remain in effect.

5.8 Portable Communication Device Use While Driving

Employees who drive on Company business must abide by all state or local laws prohibiting or limiting device (cell phone or personal digital assistant) use while driving. Further, even if usage is permitted, employees may choose to refrain from using any device while driving. "Use" includes, but is not limited to, talking or listening to another person or sending an electronic or text message via the device.

Regardless of the circumstances, including slow or stopped traffic, if any use is permitted while driving, employees should proceed to a safe location off the road and safely stop the vehicle before placing or accepting a call. If acceptance of a call is absolutely necessary while the employee is driving, and permitted by law, the employee must use a hands-free option and advise the caller that they are unable to speak at that time and will return the call shortly.

Under no circumstances should employees feel that they need to place themselves at risk to fulfill business needs.

Since this policy does not require any employee to use a cell phone while driving, employees who are charged with traffic violations resulting from the use of their devices while driving will be solely responsible for all liabilities that result from such actions.

Texting and e-mailing while driving is prohibited in all circumstances.

5.9 Non-Solicitation and Distribution of Materials

To avoid distractions, solicitation by an employee of another employee is prohibited while either employee is on work time. "Work time" is defined as the time an employee is engaged, or should be engaged, in performing their work tasks for TSP. Solicitation of any kind by non-employees on Company premises is prohibited at all times.

Distribution of advertising material, handbills, printed or written literature of any kind in working areas of the Company is prohibited. Distribution of literature by non-employees on Company premises is prohibited at all times.

Important notices and items of general interest are continually posted within our internal system, CSC. Employees should make it a practice to review it frequently. This will assist employees in keeping up with what is current at TSP.

5.10 Confidential Information

During the course of work, an employee may become aware of confidential information about TSP's business, including but not limited to information regarding Company finances, pricing, products and new product development, software and computer programs, marketing strategies, suppliers and customers and potential customers. An employee also may become aware of similar confidential information belonging to the Company's clients. It is extremely important that all such information remain confidential, and particularly not be disclosed to our competitors. Any employee who improperly copies, removes (whether physically or electronically), uses or discloses confidential information to anyone outside of the Company may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination. Employees may be required to sign an agreement reiterating these obligations.

We will not acquire or seek to acquire improper means of a competitor's trade secrets or other proprietary or confidential information. We will not engage in unauthorized use, copying, distribution or alteration of software or other intellectual property.

5.11 Company Property

Equipment essential in accomplishing job duties is often expensive and may be difficult to replace. When using property, employees are expected to exercise care, perform required maintenance, and follow all operating instructions, safety standards and guidelines.

Employees should notify their manager if any equipment, machines, or tools appear to be damaged, defective, or in need of repair. Prompt reporting of loss, damages, defects, and the need for repairs could prevent deterioration of equipment and possible injury to employees or others. The Manager can answer any questions about an employee's responsibility for maintenance and care of equipment used on the job.

Employees also are prohibited from any unauthorized use of the Company's intellectual property, such as audio and video tapes, print materials and software.

Improper, careless, negligent, destructive, or unsafe use or operation of equipment can result in discipline, up to and including discharge.

Further, TSP is not responsible for any damage to employees' personal belongings unless the employee's Manager provided advance approval for the employee to bring the personal property to work.

5.12 Disciplinary Action

Anyone whose conduct violates company policy may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment, in accordance with Federal, state and local law.

Section 6 - Health, Safety and Security

Maintaining a safe workplace is essential to TSP's operations, and it is TSP's policy to promote safety on the job and to comply with applicable laws regarding safety in the workplace. The health and well-being of employees is foremost among the Company's concerns. For this reason, employees are expected to assist the Company in maintaining safe working conditions. Employees are required to follow common sense safety practices and to correct or report any unsafe condition to their managers and/or the Talent Management team. Safety is a state of mind and requires constant vigilance and common sense. Safety is everyone's responsibility.

This policy applies to all employees while at work or engaged in work-related activities.

Procedures

TSP recognizes that the responsibilities for safety and health are shared. Thus, the Company has in place a safety and health program and provides regular training to all employees regarding this program. Employees who have questions about the Company's safety and health program should contact their manager and/or the Talent Management team. A copy of the TSP safety manual may also be found on the CSC knowledge base.

Employees are responsible to comply with the Company's safety rules and regulations and for continuously practicing safety while performing their duties. Employees are required to report to work during each scheduled workday able to safely and competently perform their job duties. If an employee is unable to safely or competently perform their job duties for any reason they are required to inform their manager immediately. Additionally, employees who observe or experience unsafe working conditions are required to immediately report the unsafe working conditions to their manager as well as the Head of Talent Management.

Additionally, as detailed in the Company's Safety manual found on the CSC knowledge base, all workplace accidents, injuries and illnesses involving employees, even those that are not serious, must be immediately reported to their manager and Talent Management. Similarly, all accidents and injuries involving the Company's customers, vendors, contractors or any other person who is on company premises, even those that are not serious, must be immediately reported to their manager and Talent Management.

It is only through full knowledge of every accident or injury that the Company can become a safer, healthier place to work for everyone. Employees' notification to the Company of unsafe working conditions or of workplace accidents, injuries or illnesses is essential to enforcing this policy. Employees may be assured that they will not be penalized in any way for reporting unsafe working conditions or workplace accidents, injuries or illnesses.

6.1 Personal Property

TSP assumes no liability whatsoever for the damage, loss or theft of employee personal property.

6.2 Security

Maintaining the security of TSP offices is every employee's responsibility. Develop habits that insure security as a matter of course.

To further protect our employees, an employee should escort all visitors and/or vendors. You are responsible for ensuring that visitors and vendors meeting with you at our office conduct themselves in a professional, businesslike manner. Visits for the purpose of conducting personal business should be avoided whenever possible.

All doors should be locked except during normal business hours (8 a.m. – 5 p.m.). Be especially careful and aware of your surroundings outside of the building, particularly after dark.

If you see something suspicious, report it to Talent Management or local authorities.

6.3 Search Policy

TSP has the right to conduct a search on property as an effective means of detecting unauthorized use of company property or possession of contraband materials such as drugs, alcohol, or weapons. Applicants and current employees agree, as a condition of continuing employment, to consent to searches, including but not limited to (a) searches of their person and personal belongings, including but not limited to, purses, briefcases, backpacks and lunch boxes; (b) searches of work areas, including but not limited to, desks, cabinets, lockers, storage areas; (c) searches of all packages and parcels entering and/or leaving the premises; and (d) all vehicles on the premises of the Company. Searches of an employee's person or clothing will be conducted privately by a company representative of the same sex as the employee being searched.

Only company-provided locks may be used on property. TSP also reserves the right to ask employees questions in regard to the above. Search procedures will be conducted only to improve security and protect TSP employees.

All storage facilities, offices and workspaces, including desks and lockers, are the property of TSP, and TSP reserves the right to have access to these areas and to such property at any time, without advance notice to any employee. Therefore, employees should not expect that such property will be treated as private and personal to the employee. Likewise, electronic mail and voice mail are also company property and are to be used only for business purposes. Internet accounts are also to be used only for company business. TSP reserves the right to inspect, monitor and have access to company computers, electronic mail, voice mail messages and Internet communications sent with TSP equipment.

To promote the safety of employees and company visitors, as well as the security of its facilities, TSP reserves the right to conduct video surveillance of any portion of its premises at any time. Video cameras will be positioned in appropriate places within and around company buildings. The only exceptions to this policy include private areas of restrooms, showers and dressing rooms.

6.4 Driving on Company Business

All employees authorized to drive Company-owned or leased vehicles or personal vehicles in conducting Company business must possess a current, valid driver's license and an acceptable driving record. Any change in license status or driving record must be reported to management immediately.

An employee must have a valid driver's license in their possession while operating a vehicle off or on Company property. It is the responsibility of every employee to drive safely and obey all traffic, vehicle safety, and parking laws or regulations. Drivers must demonstrate safe driving habits at all times.

Section 7 - Separation from TSP

Employment with TSP is voluntary and subject to termination by the employee or TSP at will, with or without cause, and with or without notice, at any time. Nothing in these policies shall be interpreted to be in conflict with or to eliminate or modify in any way the employment-at-will status of TSP employees.

7.1 Voluntary Termination

Should an employee decide to leave TSP, we ask that they provide a Manager written notice with at least two (2) weeks advance notice of departure. Thoughtfulness will be appreciated. All Company, property including, but not limited to, keys, passwords, security cards, parking passes, laptop computers, mobile phones and tools, must be returned at separation. Employees also must return all of the Company's confidential information upon separation. To the extent permitted by law, employees will be required to repay the Company, (through payroll deduction, if lawful) for any lost or damaged Company, property. As noted previously, all employees are employed at-will and nothing in this handbook changes that status.

Open Vacation Time may not be scheduled as part of the notice period following a resignation. TSP reserves the right to waive this stipulation due to circumstances it deems to be extenuating.

It is the policy of TSP, to comply with individual state and federal laws regarding payout of earned paid time off for voluntary termination. However, any advanced but unaccrued paid time off will be deducted from an employee's final paycheck, to the extent permitted by law.

Employees who resign are offered an opportunity to participate in an electronic or live exit interview with Talent Management, if possible.

7.2 Involuntary Termination

Involuntary Termination is a termination initiated by TSP with or without cause. Usually discussions with your manager and attempts to remedy the problem(s) precede termination; however, as TSP is an at-will employer, we reserve the right to terminate without utilization of such procedures. Because we are an at-will employer, an employment relationship can be terminated at any time.

Attendance at the termination meeting should be limited to the employee, the employee's manager, and an additional member of the TSP leadership team, when appropriate.

All Company, property including, but not limited to, keys, passwords, security cards, parking passes, laptop computers, mobile phones and tools, must be returned at separation. Employees also must return all of the Company's confidential information upon separation. To the extent permitted by law, employees will be required to repay the Company, (through payroll deduction, if lawful) for any lost or damaged Company, property.

Separation pay and eligibility for rehire may be considered for an involuntarily discharged employee in the event of reorganization, layoffs or job description changes that led to the employee's discharge.

Any employee who is rehired following a 30-day break in service other than an approved leave of absence will be considered a new employee from the effective date of rehire, except in the situation of a layoff recall

It is the policy of TSP, to comply with individual state and federal laws regarding payout of earned paid time off for involuntary terminations. However, any advanced but unaccrued paid time off will be deducted from an employee's final paycheck, to the extent permitted by law.

7.3 Death of an Employee

A termination due to the death of an employee will be made effective as of the date of death.

- Upon receiving notification of the death of an employee, the employee's manager should immediately notify Talent Management.
- The benefits administrator will work with the carriers to process all appropriate beneficiary payments from the various benefits plans.
- The employee's manager should ensure that the payroll office receives the deceased employee's timesheet

This handbook is intended to give employees a broad summary of things they should know about TSP. The information in this handbook is general in nature and, should questions arise, any member of management should be consulted for complete details. While we intend to continue the policies, rules and benefits described in this handbook, TSP, in its sole discretion, may always amend, add to, delete from or modify the provisions of this handbook and/or change its interpretation of any provision set forth in this handbook. Employees should not hesitate to speak to management if they have any questions about the Company or its personnel policies and practices.

General Handbook Acknowledgment

This Employee handbook is an important document intended to help you become acquainted with TSP. This document is intended to provide guidelines and general descriptions only; it is not the final word in all cases. Individual circumstances may call for individual attention.

Because TSP's operations may change, the contents of this handbook may be changed at any time, with or without notice, in an individual case or generally, at the sole discretion of management.

Please read the following statements and sign below to indicate your receipt and acknowledgment of this Employee handbook.

I have received and read a copy of TSP's Employee handbook. I understand that the policies, rules and benefits described in it are subject to change at the sole discretion of the Company at any time.

I further understand that my employment is terminable at will, either by myself or the Company, with or without cause or notice, regardless of the length of my employment or the granting of benefits of any kind.

I understand that no representative of TSP other than the CEO and/or the Head of Talent Management may alter "at will" status and any such modification must be in a signed writing.

I understand that my signature below indicates that I have read and understand the above statements and that I have received a copy of the Company's Employee handbook.

The record of receipt and acknowledgment of this policy will be electronically stored in your personnel file.

Receipt of Sexual Harassment Policy

It is TSP's policy to prohibit harassment of any employee by any Manager, employee, customer or vendor on the basis of sex or gender. The purpose of this policy is not to regulate personal morality within the Company. It is to ensure that at the Company all employees are free from sexual harassment. While it is not easy to define precisely what types of conduct could constitute sexual harassment, examples of prohibited behavior include unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, obscene gestures, displaying sexually graphic magazines, calendars or posters, sending sexually explicit e-mails, text messages and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature, such as uninvited touching of a sexual nature or sexually related comments. Depending upon the circumstances, improper conduct also can include sexual joking, vulgar or offensive conversation or jokes, commenting about an employee's physical appearance, conversation about your own or someone else's sex life, or teasing or other conduct directed toward a person because of their gender which is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create an unprofessional and hostile working environment.

If the employee feels that they have been subjected to conduct which violates this policy, the employee should immediately report the matter to the Manager. If unable for any reason to contact this person, or if the employee has not received a satisfactory response within five (5) business days after reporting any incident of perceived harassment, the employee should contact the Head of Talent Management. If the person toward whom the complaint is directed is one of the individuals indicated above, the employee should contact any higher-level manager in their reporting hierarchy. Every report of perceived harassment will be fully investigated, and corrective action will be taken where appropriate. All complaints will be kept confidential to the extent possible, but confidentiality cannot be guaranteed. In addition, the Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report unwelcome conduct to management or who cooperate in the investigations of such reports in accordance with this policy. If an employee feels that they have been subjected to any such retaliation, the employee should report it in the same manner in which a claim of perceived harassment would be reported under this policy. Violation of this policy including any improper retaliatory conduct will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge. All employees must cooperate with all investigations.

The record of receipt and acknowledgment of this policy will be electronically stored in your personnel file.

Receipt of Non-Harassment Policy

It is TSP's policy to prohibit intentional and unintentional harassment of any individual by another person on the basis of any protected classification including, but not limited to, race, color, national origin, disability, religion, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation or age. The purpose of this policy is not to regulate our employees' personal morality, but to ensure that in the workplace, no one harasses another individual.

If an employee feels that they have been subjected to conduct which violates this policy, they should immediately report the matter to the Manager. If the employee is unable for any reason to contact this person, or if the employee has not received a satisfactory response within five (5) business days after reporting any incident of what the employee perceives to be harassment, the employee should contact the Head of Talent Management. If the person toward whom the complaint is directed is one of the individuals indicated above, the employee should contact any higher-level manager in their reporting hierarchy. Every report of perceived harassment will be fully investigated, and corrective action will be taken where appropriate. All complaints will be kept confidential to the extent possible, but confidentiality cannot be guaranteed. In addition, the Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report unwelcome conduct to management or who cooperate in the investigations of such reports in accordance with this policy. If an employee feels they have been subjected to any such retaliation, they should report it in the same manner in which the employee would report a claim of perceived harassment under this policy. Violation of this policy including any improper retaliatory conduct will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge. All employees must cooperate with all investigations.

The record of receipt and acknowledgment of this policy will be electronically stored in your personnel file.
